SYNOPSIS

A film about a messed up world... and how we could fix it.

Sprinkled with music from Bob Dylan, Ben Harper, Jack Johnson and Willie Nelson, One Peace at a Time lyrically weaves a tapestry through 20 countries and is as magical as it is informative.

Activist Turk Pipkin (The Sopranos, Nobility)) continues his global journey of knowledge in action with a goal to create a virtual roadmap to a better future by focusing on specific solutions in these troubled times.

Join Pipkin as he chronicles the model Indian orphanages of The Miracle Foundation, family planning initiatives with Thailand's Mechai Viravaidya, Ethiopian water projects with A Glimmer of Hope, and Architecture for Humanity's global design challenge for communities in need in the Himalayas, the Amazon and the slums of Nairobi.

Be part of the solution – One Peace at a Time.

“One Peace at a Time is not only a compelling look at what is being done to solve the problems of our time but shows the power of our choices to make a difference. It is also an outstanding example of the evolution of the documentary form. The most unexpected thing about the film is the humor, joy, and hope that it delivers -- it is an inspiring roadmap to a better world.” - theragblog.blogspot.com

TURK PIPKIN

Writer, actor and filmmaker Turk Pipkin is the director of the new feature documentary, One Peace at a Time, which looks at the possibility of providing basic rights to every child.

Turk also directed the feature documentary, Nobility, which looks at the world's most pressing problems through the eyes of Nobel laureates, including Desmond Tutu, Wangari Maathai, Sir Joseph Rotblat and many others.

Turk is also the author of ten books of fiction and nonfiction – with over 400,000 books in print. His latest book is the NY Times bestseller, The Tao of Willie (Gotham), which Turk coauthored with American music legend, Willie Nelson. Turk is also the author of two critically acclaimed novels. "Endowed with a vivid sense of time and place," said the New York Times Book Review of his novel Fast Greens, "the characters are wonderfully drawn and the dialogue is sharp and colorful."

As an actor, Turk played a recurring role as Janice's narcoleptic boyfriend Aaron Arkaway in HBO's "The Sopranos," and in numerous feature films, including Waiting for Guffman, The Alamo, Friday Night Lights and Rick Linklater's Scanner Darkly.

Turk and his wife Christy Pipkin are the founders of The Nobility Project, a 501c3 nonprofit dedicated to a better world for children everywhere. Online at www.nobility.org the organization sponsors the Nobility In Schools program, which engages young people in the issues that will shape their own futures.

Acclaim for Nobility, has been widespread. Esquire called the film, "Nine Ways to Save the World." At aintitcool.com, Harry Knowles calls Nobility, "Simply Brilliant. One of the most important films of this or any year."

In 2009, The Nobility Project is releasing a film sequel, One Peace at a Time, which looks at real-world solutions to the global problems profiled in Nobility. Turk shot the new film shooting in twenty countries on five continents, profiling the work of Nobel Peace laureate Muhamad Yunus, Thailand's Mechai Veravaidya, orphan and education programs in India, water and education issues in Ethiopia, and the AMD/Open Architecture Challenge in Kenya, Nepal, and the Amazon rainforest of Ecuador.
